Three Minden men die in fire

Six-year-old beagle saves lives of three others

MARTHA PERKINS

Editor

Three Minden men were killed when a fire ripped through a hunt camp near West Guilford on Saturday morning but there might have been six families in mourning were it not for the devotion of a six-year-old beagle named Toonie.

Garry Cooper, his younger brother Jerald Cooper, their brother-in-law Martin Bacon and three of their friends – Tony Penick, Herbie Reimer and Jim Colman – were asleep in the Coopers' cabin just north of the Barry Line when Toonie jumped on Garry's bed at about four in the morning to wake him up.

It was only then that Garry realized that the building was on fire.

"The end wall farthest away from me was almost completely engaged," he said on Sunday evening from his home near the hunt camp.

Scrambling to find his shoes and his glasses, Garry began yelling to wake the others up. "It was pitch black but I could

Hodgson scores for Canada

MARTHA PERKINS

Editor

Every Friday and Monday morning, Cody Hodgson gets on his bike and rides from his family's cottage on Haliburton Lake to Millennium Fitness in Haliburton village. He works out for a few hours, goes to his friend Matt Duchene's house to hit a few pucks at Duchene's backyard "arena", and then rides back to cottage. It's a 35 km round trip.

To add some variety, on Saturdays he jogs up the imposing hill that links Haliburton Lake with Percy Lake.

Monday nights find him in the car, usually with his father Chris, as they head back home to Markham. Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, Cody is on the ice training with his Brampton Battalion teammates, including newcomer Matt Duchene.

But this week there will be a break in Cody's routine. He's in Prague, having earned one of 22 spots on Canada's Men's Under 18 hockey team, competing in the four-day Ivan Hlinka memorial hockey tournament.

All those bike rides in the Highlands have paid off for the 17-year-old centre, who hopes to make Canada's Junior team next year.

Cody flew to the Czech Republic on Thursday with his new teammates, eight of whom Bell Canada has announced intentions to upgrade Internet service in Haliburton County, with West Guilford residents being some of the first to benefit.

Last week, the company publicized its plans to provide digital subscriber line (DSL) Internet to more than 1,100 residents in and around Guilford. Bell will utilize existing technology in the area to provide DSL through telephone lines, without disrupting telephone service like dial-up.

Jim Neubauer, general manager for Bell Canada's Eastern Ontario Sector, said the move is part of a much larger picture across the province.

"By working in partnership with communities like West Guilford we will continue to foster opportunities to learn, to access information, and to deliver new services," said Neubauer.

Residents of West Guilford and area are invited to join Dysart et al Reeve Murray Fearrey, Deputy-reeve Bill Davis and Bell representatives for an information session at the West Guilford Community Centre on August 15 from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Vroom, vroom! The Rotary Club's annual summer parade was held this past Friday, kicking off a weekend of fun at the carnival in Head Lake Park. This year's parade theme was Nascar racing, and 5-year-old Alyssa Bogardis (pictured above) got into the spirit by waving the checkered flag.

Breanna Allin and daughter Tory wore big smiles (even if a few teeth were missing) while taking part in the Emmerson Lumber parade display, which won the prize for best commercial float.

Six-year-old Amber Nimigon gets a taste of what it's like behind the wheel. Amber and her little sister Erica (shown in the background) were both part of the float for Everitt's Enterprises.

One of the most vibrant and lively floats in the parade was the YMCA Camp Wanakita entry. On board the float were several dozen raucous pit crew members who chanted and sang songs. The float won the award for best boys and girls group entry, while the Shriners won best non-profit entry and Paul Beaver of Gelert won the prize for best car with his 1965 formula race car.

What would you choose, a new car or $25,000? After winning a draw at the Rotary Carnival on Saturday night, Ben Manuge (far right) chose the money, but not before taking the flashy red convertible for a spin around Haliburton village. Manuge, a 21-year veteran of the Haliburton Highlands OPP force was joined at Curry Motors on Monday by (from left to right) son Paddy, Rotarian Greg Bishop, Rotary President Lon Duncombe, Rotarian Jan McMaster, and wife Bev.

Highlands economy withstands dearth of American visitors

LAURA HENDRICK

Staff Reporter

As the Canadian dollar stays strong, businesses in Haliburton County seem to be dodging the border-chill bullet.

This summer the loonie has almost reached par with the U.S. dollar, making a trip up north more pricey than ever for Americans. Many tourist areas are suffering as a result.

The Canadian Tourism Commission reports that trips to Canada from the U.S. were down 6.2 per cent this May from the same time last year. While tourism numbers in the Kawarthas and Peterborough have begun to dip, the Highlands have managed to stay strong. Numbers of walk-ins to the Haliburton Highlands Information Centre actually jumped during this period, hitting 620 visits from 425 in May 2006.

Several business owners have felt this unlikely boom. "This weekend alone I could have filled up 20 times over," said Andrea Hagarty, owner of the Bonnie View Inn. She said the inn has experienced a greater number of last-minute guests, a trend that may suggest more Ontario rather than American visitors.

Marie Gage, owner of Willow Beach Cottages and Resort, says that Haliburton County has always been more of a destination spot for Canadians. "We don't have much American tourism, so we haven't been affected. They're still coming but it's such a negligible amount that we don't really feel it."

Those Americans who have been in the area may be braving the dollar out of loyalty to the Highlands. Jody Curry, co-owner of the Ethel Curry Gallery in Haliburton says "The Americans that we have had this year are repeat customers."

But Bob Smith, economic developer for the county, says that there is no time for business owners to sit on their laurels.

"All I can say is that we've held our own, we've not fallen backwards," he said, noting that he is worried that Haliburton might lose its share of the international market.

If Americans are not eager to come north, he says the county business should work to attract more city business. "There seems to be a reluctance for people in the GTA to explore other parts of Ontario. That's one of the frustrations that we have."

Canada AM shines spotlight on Wilberforce

HILDA CLARK

Special to The Echo

Every community needs a Mary Barker. Wilberforce's Mary - postmaster, artist, garden specialist - is also a super enthusiast for geocaching. She is the ultimate creative promoter of this wonderful part of Canada.

This became evident to all Canadians last Wednesday morning when she was interviewed by Beverly Thompson on Canada AM on CTV just after the 8:30 news. She was invited to go to Toronto to talk about geocaching and was assured that it would be good for her community.

Barker did a great job of explaining how to geocache, a very modern form of treasure hunting. Geocachers use a GPS, a small instrument that tells you what longitude and latitude you are at. From the Internet you can get locations of over 435,000 sites around the world where caches of small "treasures" have been placed. There are many right here in this area. The Geocaching Capital of Canada

JOHN BARKER/Special to the Echo

Last Wednesday morning, you didn't need a GPS to find Mary Barker. She was being interviewed about geocaching by Beverly Thompson on Canada AM. Back home in Wilberforce, the village gathered at Agnew's General Store, which Barker owns with her family, to cheer her on. Barker has helped to establish Wilberforce as the geocaching capital of Canada.

includes the villages of Irondale, Gooderham, Tory Hill, Wilberforce, Harcourt, Highland Grove and Cardiff. With a GPS you can go out and find many caches in the area of these communities.

Mary reports that she was put at ease by the really nice people at CTV but she still found it a nerve-racking experience. While she was sweating it out in Toronto promoting this activity, over 60 local supporters gathered at Agnew's General Store, her home base, having breakfast, drinking coffee and having a good time awaiting our Mary's appearance on national TV and cheering her on. She did us proud in the few minutes she was on.

Geocaching got a great boost. Mary was concerned that she was not given much opportunity to actually promote this area and had wanted to mention the names of all the villages in the area. She can be assured that she represented the area well and there will surely be a good spin off of interest in this area.

Ever the good community supporter, and willing volunteer there she was on Saturday taking her turn at the Monmouth Agricultural Fair promoting geocaching. A lady came to the booth inquiring about this activity that she had heard "some woman talking about on the TV the other day." Of course she was amazed to realize that Mary was the one from Canada AM. Another geocaching convert! And all because Mary Barker took the time to promote an activity that will bring visitors to our area and one that we can all enjoy.

Fatal fire is almost too much to comprehend

AT FIRST THE NEWS seems too shocking to be true. Three local men are killed when a hunting cabin catches fire in the early morning of an otherwise perfect summer weekend. The news is so horrific that you expect the rest of the world to stop too. How can the sun shine on a day that has brought with it such a horror? And yet, an hour away people are enjoying the rides at the Haliburton Rotary Carnival. Children are laughing at the Crapper Capers in Minden.

Hundreds of cottagers are on or in the lake, basking in one of the last glorious weekends of the summer. To the families of the three men who died, it must have all seemed so wrong.

But enjoying the lifestyle of the Highlands is exactly what these three men liked best. They too had a deep appreciation of what makes the Highlands such a special place to be. For three generations, the Cooper hunt camp has been a place of refuge, a haven of solitude, a gathering place for friends and family. Sure the hunting and fishing were important, but what they valued most was the camaraderie.

It is very hard to find anything positive in such a tragedy. Three men lost their lives at far too young an age. They had a lot of living left in them. Three wives are deprived of their husbands' companionship and love. Six children must cope with not having a father and their children will never again be taken to that magic place on Third Lake with their grandfathers.

But the families are trying to find solace in the knowledge that the men were with friends in a place they loved. They'd got together at the camp for a fun weekend of fishing, talking well into the night in the cabin tucked deep in the Highlands wood. They were happy.

While a cause of the fire has yet to be determined, the extremely dry conditions we've been experiencing these past few weeks were likely a contributing factor. Most Highlanders fear fires in the winter, when woodstoves are burning, but the weekend's fatal fire was an awful reminder of how careful we must be in the summer as well. It doesn't take much to set a dry forest floor alight. Until the rains return, people must exercise extreme caution when burning outside.

To the families of Jerald Cooper, Martin Bacon and Tony Penick, the county bands together in offering their deepest sympathy. The families' pain is unimaginable and there is so little that others can do except offer support and a shoulder to lean on.

Peace to their souls.

Bikinis and pontoon boats

I'VE ALWAYS WANTED a pontoon boat. They're an excellent casting platform and with a bit of work they can be transformed into a spacious duck blind for the fall. They skim through very shallow water and are useful when you want to explore out-of-the-way places too.

More than that, you can set up a camping cover and enjoy an overnigher on your favourite lake which means that, in summer, they are tailor-made for family adventures.

My wife loves these things too. She envisions us spending days on the water while the kids swim, she reads, and I barbecue. It's the one boat I know I will not have any trouble convincing her that we need. And that's great.

The only thing holding me back is the frolicking women in bikinis.

I don't know what they have to do with boating, but every time I get on-line and look at various pontoon boat models, there are frolicking women in bikinis in the photos. I've come to realize that, whether you want them or not, they're part of the package.

Apparently, pontoon boats attract an excessive amount of women in skimpy bikinis all the time. Let me just say, in this case, excessive is one of those relative words - if you're married this means one; if not, it means more than the boat's safe carrying capacity.

This, of course, is a real concern. For one thing, I would find it hard to concentrate on fishing with a couple of scantily clad women playing with a beach ball on deck. No offence, but this sort of thing just gets in the way, especially if you are fly casting. Let's not even talk about how it would affect my duck calling efforts.

And, if every time I took my wife and kids for a day on the water, women in skimpy bikinis asked for a ride, I think this might put a strain on my marriage.

That's a shame too, because in the ads, all the scantily clad women ever really seem to want to do is play with beach balls, laugh at the men's jokes, and tan on the front deck. Personally, I think I could find it in my heart to show a little tolerance.

If I could somehow find a way to repel bikini-clad women, I think I'd probably go out and buy one. But the truth is I have a hard enough time doing this without a pontoon boat. Every time I go to the beach, they're all over the place.

I suppose a person could launch at the break of dawn long before most women in skimpy bikinis are even awake. Then, once you put some distance between the boat and shore, I bet that you might be able to keep them at bay. But, if those ads are even halfway correct, I wouldn't count on it.

With my luck, a party of swimsuit-clad women would swim over board us just as the fishing got hot. Before you know it, they'd be tanning all over the place, giggling, slathering each other with suntan lotion, and ruining a really good bite.

You know if it weren't for this one little problem, pontoon boats would be perfect.

Fishing with dad

THERE WERE FEW THINGS that could trump going to the cottage store with its comics and penny candy. However, she jumped at a chance to go fishing with her dad and leave her mom and brothers to their store foray. Time with her father was precious. On those few occasions he was not away 'at work' she had to share him with her three brothers. Summer weekends and then the last two weeks of sharon

road

August were when he joined the family at the cottage and Sara tried to get enough of his company then to last her through the rest of the year. So, when he told her if she caught the bait they could go in the boat after supper, she could hardly wait.

With her minnow bucket and a box of worms, she followed him down to the dock where the old rowboat awaited. Sara had painted it sunny yellow the year before and it shone like a star on the dark lakeshore. The evening shadows of mid-August were fingering the trees and rocky ground, the air cool and still. A kingfisher skimmed across the bay as they pushed away from the dock. They did not have far to go.

On the other side of the bay was an old uprooted tree trunk jutting out from the shore. It had been there as long as Sara could remember. Her dad threw in the rock anchor a few feet away from the stump. He baited her hook with a squirming worm. Although Sara could do this herself, he knew she hated it. He then did the same with his own hook during which there was very little conversation. In fact, they spoke hardly at all while they fished.

Her father had established long ago that you had to be quiet when you were fishing because the fish could hear you and so stay away from your lines. He had also taught them to fish early in the morning, in the evening or right after a rainfall but never in bright sunlight. They fished for bass at the mouth of the river where it emptied into the lake. The water current's bounty lured the fish from the shadows of rocks and old logs on the shallow lake bottom. All Sara and her father had to do was drop in their hooks and wait, quiet and still.

Although she knew he liked this type of fishing, Sara's father did it only a few times during the summer. There were a multitude of chores and repairs calling for his time when he was at the cottage and Sara's mother also made some claim to his company. After all, while he was working in the city she spent most of the summer with the four children, a dog and two cats but little else. So when he was around, the two adults would stay up late, sitting in the darkened screened porch with a drink by their side and murmured conversations that went well into the night.

Now the water nudged their boat. Sara's eyes moved from her motionless line disappearing into the dark water to the crimson and purple etched across the sky over the big lake. The odd tug on her hook had diminished her worm but otherwise they had seen no action. Looked like there would be no bass for breakfast tomorrow morning, no smell of frying butter and fish enveloping the tiny cottage stove. She looked over at her dad. He was gazing at the sunset with that expression Sara's mother called 'wool gathering'. Sara knew he was miles away in his head, even if he was sitting here in the boat with her. But she didn't care too much. She'd take him anyway she could.

pic of the past

This garishly bedecked horse-drawn wagon is believed to be Gorrie's Departmental Store float for a Calithumpian parade in Haliburton circa 1910. Note the two women aboard the float and the driver who appears to be Wm. Gorrie with his face painted/blackened in the minstrel fashion of the day. They were photographed in front of Gorrie's store, looking towards the Grand Central Hotel, visible at the right. At left is the Easton (later Carnochan) house. The building behind the parade float is unknown. The photo is part of the Gorrie collection on exhibit this month at the Haliburton Highlands Museum.

letters to the editor

Is MNR now using the paper to communicate?

To the Editor:

Environment Haliburton! congratulates the Ministry of Natural Resources on its vastly improved consultation process, using the letters to the editor as a participatory technique. It certainly improves upon the usual MNR consultation approach of sending information letters to residents within 500 metres of a project!

In 1999, when the "environmental" studies were done on the Bark Lake site, the project was incorrectly defined as only a quarry. The crusher, water taking, asphalt plant were not included in this definition. Had the full project been assessed in 1999, it seems most likely that the public would have demanded a more thorough environmental evaluation of the project.

As EH! has suggested several times to the MNR, the permit should be lifted and the entire project subjected to appropriate review and assessment.

Can the MNR assess cumulative impacts, as it now should do? Is the MNR able to steward our lands and resources?

To the Editor:

I want to mention how impressed I am with the dedication of the Haliburton All-Terrain Vehicle Association (HATVA) toward preserving and improving the Rail Trail.

The HATVA has been instrumental in ensuring the amazing Howland Junction High Trestle Bridge will be around for many more users to enjoy. I was saddened to see the Rail Trail bridge at the Milburn Road removed because of safety concerns a number of years ago. The high trestle is an irreplaceable asset to tourism in Haliburton County. Without it recreational travel would effectively be cut off from the south, limiting enjoyment year round of the entire trail and isolating businesses from thousands of motorized recreationists who visit Haliburton County every year via the Rail Trail.

I came upon a crew of at least 30 hard working individuals the last Saturday of July installing a brand new hardwood deck on the high trestle. The work was being done in an orderly, safe and well orchestrated manner which included a great barbecue lunch – which I was invited to share with the HATVA crew. I discovered that ATV enthusiasts amongst the crew had travelled from as far away as Burlington and Brampton to help out with the work.

The Rail Trail contributes millions of dollars to Haliburton County's tourism economy every year. It is the spine of the HCSA's snowmobile trail system and an integral part of the HATVA trail system. The HATVA has done a superb job of ensuring all users – motorized and otherwise – have a sturdy and safe bridge to enjoy for many more years. All in all it is a tremendous and unselfish contribution that all trail users will appreciate.

Helmets off to the HATVA.

Haliburton's Head Lake Park was an oasis of fun this past weekend when the annual Rotary Carnival came to town with games, treats and rides for all ages. One of the most popular rides was the Scrambler, which gave a thrill to Michelle Perry, Martine Perry and Caitlin Pitts (above) on Saturday night. The classic merry-go-round was also a great deal of fun for the younger children at the fair, such as 2-year-old Annie Merrifield (at left) who took her magical ride at sunset.

What a blast!

While some of the older kids were getting their kicks on rides, two-year-old Luka Nahatchewitz (above) was busy 'fishing' at one of the many games booths.

As the final night of the carnival wound down twin sisters Jackie and Rickie Steepe-Rouse (top right) were still having a ball while riding the ferris wheel with their mom, Glenda-Jean.

To top off a wonderful weekend, the Rotary Club sponsored a fireworks display that was set off from a platform in the middle of Head Lake. Unfortunately the 10-minute show had to be cut short due to technical difficulties, but not before several large and awe-inspiring blasts echoed through the night.

WHO HAS SEEN THE WIND?

On Saturday, Bill Beatty was ready for the Drag Lake sailing regatta. He had his boat - a double keeled Vivacity 20. He had his crew - Jean-Edouard de Mareches, who has crossed the Atlantic Ocean on a 40-foot sailboat, and Echo editor Martha Perkins. Now all he needed was some wind. But it was not to be. Even after adding a third sail, there was little wind to be found. The fun was in the searching.

Mary-Ella and Gord Munn accept their first-place ribbons from Drag Lake sailing regatta organizers Greg and Tom Platt after last Saturday's race.

High excitement makes up for low speeds at regatta

The sun was much more co-operative than its cousin the wind when Drag Lake held its annual sailing regatta on Saturday, August 11.

Sixteen sailboats and one windsurfer gathered at the starting line shortly after one. When the horn blew, they headed for the first of two buoys on the triangular course. But it was less a race than a leisurely stroll to the finish line, thanks to the gentle breeze that barely made a ripple on the lake's surface.

Many have been taking part in the regatta for years, including champion sailor Peter Sulman of Kennisis Lake. He had the fastest handicapped time (91.56) but could not win the race because he doesn't own property on the lake. Instead, Mary-

Ella and Gord Munn had the ribbons placed around their necks by regatta organizers Greg and Tom Platt.

The results are as follows:

- 1: Mary-Ella and Gord Munn, Wayfarer, 92.23
- 2: Paul Saxton, Petrel, 112.99
- 3: John Alton, Laser, 114.77

- 4: Nancy and Rod McNair, Invitation, 130.72
 - 5: Jim Johnson, Laser, 137.34
 - 6: Vaune Davis, Laser, 137.94
 - 7: Jimmy Platt, Finn, 19.91
 - 8: Geoff Cresswell and Jan Zurowski, Windrider, 155.96
 - 9: Calvin Brown, Banshee, 164.17
 - 10: Greg and Tom Platt, Hobie 18, 176.19
- Six boats did not finish the race.

Sailors compete during the Kennisis Lake Regatta last Sunday. The race started in Bullfrog Bay.

Winds hold steady for Kennisis Lake Regatta

JIM PRINCE

Special to the Echo

The Kennisis Lake Sailing Regatta was Sunday, August 5. At the 11 a.m. start, the winds were south-westerly 5-10 knots gusting to 15 and held steady for the duration of the race. The start was in Bullfrog Bay and the course was northerly to Pine Point and west toward Blueberry Island and returned downwind to the start.

All sailors finished and a good time was had by all. This year was a significant reunion year for the regatta. Pete Sulman, Derek Carroll and Ray Dugan were original Kennisis Lake regatta sailors more than twenty years ago.

Hodgson scores a goal in practice game against Slovakia are from Ontario. Canada is in a group with the Czech Republic, Sweden and Switzerland. In Sunday's practice game against Slovakia, Slovakia started with a two-goal advantage. Canada was tied 3-3 when Cody scored a goal late in the third period. Canada won the game 7-6.

"I think [the win] helped them feel good going into the competition," says Cody's mother Marie, who just missed the call from her son on Sunday night. Cody did talk to his older brother Clayton and was "pretty excited" about his goal and the team's win.

Starting today, team Canada plays three round-robin games in its group. The bronze and gold medal games are scheduled for Aug. 18.

Last week Cody flew to Calgary for the five-day selection camp. There were 40 NHL hopefuls from across Canada, many of whom, like Cody, had played against each other in the Canada Winter Games in February.

Cody was born in Haliburton but his family moved to Markham when his father, Chris, this riding's MPP, was in Mike Harris' provincial cabinet. Cody was the Battalion's first-round pick in the 2006 Priority Selection. The team website says that last year he had 23 goals and 23 assists in 63 regular season games, adding one goal and three assists in the playoffs. In the Canada Winter Games, Cody scored the opening goal in Ontario's 6-4 gold medal victory.

In preparation for the under-18 national men's team selection, Cody kept himself mentally primed by reading up on past players who had made the team. More than two-thirds of the players on Canada's Junior team had played in the Czech tournament. He also reassured himself that all would not be lost if he didn't make the cut. There have been players who didn't make the team and yet went on to join the NHL.

"He doesn't allow his mind to think negative thoughts," his mother says.

Last Tuesday night, the players were told that if they were not chosen for the team they would get a knock on their dorm door at 5:30 the next morning. This would spare them having to watch the other players celebrate their success.

Cody was thrilled when he woke up on Wednesday morning and his clock read 6:30. He hadn't received the 5:30 knock on the door.

"It was a really intense camp," Cody says on the Battalion's website. "It was fast and the talent level was high. It's an honour and a privilege to be on this team, and I'm excited to go."

That was Wednesday morning. The next day Cody was on a flight to Prague.

Given the short lead time, as well as the fact that most games will be played in arenas hours from Prague, Cody's parents decided not to be watching him from the stands. Instead, they plan to be gathered at the family cottage compound to cheer on Cody and Canada.

Hone your hockey skills in Haliburton next week

For the past 26 years the All-Canadian Hockey School has been providing top quality hockey programs for players Novice through Minor Bantam from all over North America, and Europe.

As featured on Rink Rat Television, the ACHS has a strong staff that stresses fun and fundamentals. The aim is for every player to leave the school as a stronger player and to bring back to their team an enhanced confidence for the game of hockey and how it is played.

Classes are kept small for maximum exposure and development and are capped at 20 players and two goalies on the ice at any one time. ACHS programs are not for beginners and players must have a minimum of two years of playing experience before attending.

The ACHS is pleased to extend some of its programs to Haliburton this summer. Regrettably our team training camp program this year is already sold out. However, limited space still remains in the full-day or residency camp program as well as the morning on-ice-only program which both run Monday, August 20 through Friday, August 24.

To register or to receive more information about the ACHS or any of its other programs, please call 1-888-832-8121 or check the web at www.achscanada.com

Pro wakeboarder gives pro reporter a jump

This week Koshlong Lake cottager and pro wakeboarder Kyle Rattray goes one-on-one with the Echo's wannabe wakeboarder Matt James

MATT JAMES

Staff Reporter

When presented with the opportunity to take a pro wakeboarding lesson from Kyle Rattray, I'm almost certain I responded with a mixed display of repeated yeses, overzealous head nodding, possible drooling, and of course, sheer excitement.

Craig Bowker, the owner of Ski-Mazing Watersports School, had invited the Koshlong Lake cottager, who now lives in Orlando, Florida, back to the Highlands for a Wake Up Clinic on Lake Kashagawigamog on August 10 and 11. A suitable name, I thought, as a wakeboarding theme. However, I realized it was merely a sick joke when my alarm clock blared at 6:30 a.m.—wake up!

But in the name of wakeboarding I peeled myself out of bed and by 7:45 a.m. I was at the water's edge where I met Craig, who supplied me with the necessary gear and safety equipment. Included was a helmet furnished with the Headzone Coaching System. Check this out—these helmets are equipped with built-in speakers and through a CB/walkie-talkie style system, Kyle was able to instruct me from the boat while I was boarding. How efficient and cool is that? Ski-Mazing is definitely dialed in with the latest in lesson gear.

With some wakeboarding experience under my belt, Kyle suggested I show him my skills before he went ahead with any instruction. The powerful engine of the X2 Mastercraft boat pulled me effortlessly from the water and soon I was flying gracefully across the wake, jump after jump, showing Kyle, Craig, who was driving, and photographer Greg Hoekstra, that there was no real reason why I was there for a lesson.

And then I snapped out of my daydream. After Greg

GREG HOEKSTRA/Echo

photographed me wiping out after a few feeble attempts at crossing the wake, a voice crackled through the speakers of my helmet.

"Looks like you need some work on your toe side," said Kyle. Toe side, as opposed to heel side, refers to the side of the wake one is facing.

"Yeah, that side feels really uncomfortable compared to my heel side."

"That's natural," he said.

Natural describes Kyle's progression from waterskiing to wakeboarding.

Kyle's story of becoming a pro wakeboarder plays out a lot like the main character in the skateboard videogame, Tony Hawk's Underground. The character, a regular Joe who loves to skate, enters a few contests, performs well, meets a couple of pros, gets sponsored, and next thing he knows, he's skating with Tony and the crew.

Originally from Guelph, Kyle started wakeboarding at his cottage in Haliburton; he placed well after participating in a few grassroots wakeboard contests across Ontario and started to ride more in Muskoka. A few years ago at Wakestock, in Toronto, Kyle met a couple of pros who cordially invited him to Orlando to ride with them anytime he wanted. It just so happened he was heading south the week after Wakestock; he loved the Orlando scene.

After finishing high school he moved to Orlando just for a year off to do something new and fun, but one thing led to another, and soon enough he was doing well in contests and the sponsorships came, which allowed him to enter more contests.

"It just snowballed from there," he says.

"The first thing you need to do is stand up taller when you carve towards the wake," instructed Kyle.

Teaching beginners is still the most satisfying

On my second attempt I took to the wake with Kyle's advice and popped higher into the air, but that freaked me out and I let go of the handle with one hand, lost my balance, and crashed into the water.

"Try and keep the handle at your waist, even as you go across the wake. That will help secure your balance."

Attempt number three, four, and five were unsuccessful and awkward jumps, but before attempt number six I focused and recalled everything Kyle had said. I stood tall, carved hard, popped, kept the handle near my waist. After completing the checklist I came down on the other side of the wake as smooth as Molson Golden.

Another crackle came through my helmet.

"Yeah, that's it! Perfect," said Kyle.

Nodding my head and smiling, I was pleased with how natural the jump felt and through Kyle's instruction I realized how much I'd been forcing the process all along.

"Sometimes less is more," said Kyle.

At the tender age of 22, Kyle has already been teaching for nearly four years. He started at his own camp in Muskoka called Performance Wakeboard School, but after joining the pro tour his schedule was tight and it didn't allow him to stay in the area all summer long to teach. However, Kyle takes part in many clinics like Wake Up at Ski-Mazing over the summer and really enjoys teaching.

"I like teaching the real beginner-beginner," said Kyle. "Watching them have some crazy thing they can't fix, telling them one thing and then watching it click—like you're toe side stuff today."

I blushed.

Though he rides with pros and sees the craziest tricks being performed all day long, Kyle still enjoys seeing the expression on the faces of kids after landing a new trick.

In Orlando, Kyle works at The Board School under veteran pro boarder Shaun Murray and tour driver Travis Moyn. Kyle works primarily with males aged 30-45 years, so when he does a clinic like Wake Up at Ski-Mazing where more kids are involved, teaching is a different animal.

"You definitely have to adjust yourself and the way you talk to little kids verses older people," said Kyle.

During the winter months Kyle introduced some Canadian heritage to his US mates by way of ice hockey. He and a bunch of pro boarding buddies play pick up where I only assume he excels compared his buddies. He also likes to hit the links and the gym, which he finds benefits his boarding.

"I feel a lot more comfortable on the water, a lot safer. I feel like my body's not going to break," he said.

But even he is not immune to injury — Kyle blew out his knee at the Kelowna tour stop in July, and he'll undergo surgery in two weeks' time to repair the damage, so no more boarding till the end of the year.

"It's killing me not being able to ride," he said, but he has plenty to keep him busy with an up coming trip to the Worlds and Cancun for the US open to drive and hang out, he's also doing a lot of clinics. On top of that he recently signed with Gator boards and has his first pro model board coming out, so he's giving that a lot of attention.

"Plus I have a few secret things coming up with Gator that will be pretty cool, so keep your eye out for that," said Kyle.

But for the moment my focus was on the wake beside me was I more than ready to land a flip, a trick I've not been landing for years.

"Alright, show me what you got," radioed Kyle.

I cut to the wake, launched and tried the flip, which, I would soon learn, was being performed completely wrong. In fact, what I thought was a simple flip was actually a flip combined with a 540-degree twist with a switch landing — in other words, I was complicating things again.

But before I could attempt any more flips it was time to head back to the dock where others waited anxiously for their turn with Kyle. The young man was doing his job and doing it well as he helped make my toe side jumps far more comfortable, the flip however he was skeptic of.

"I would say if you're going for a backside role you should come out for another lesson and we can work the whole way through it—it needs a little bit of attention," Kyle said raising his brow.

We both laughed but all I can think about is next week's Dare To Barefoot clinic at Drag Lake Aug. 17-18 with Richard Grey, the Canadian National Barefoot team coach. In 2005, Water Ski and Wakeboard Canada, the national association who govern all toed water sports, voted Grey coach of the year.

"His coaching level and skill level is a rare opportunity for people to take advantage," said Bowker.

Bowker and Ski-Mazing are flying Grey in from British Columbia and there is limited availability for the clinic. For details or to register call Ski-Mazing Watersports School at 705-457-3001, ext. 856.

Horseshoe Days is a ringer!

The weather was perfect, the crowds were boisterous and the fun was just waiting to be had at Gooderham Horseshoe Days over the civic holiday weekend. One highlight was a show by Canadian Wrestling Entertainment. The younger crowd, including six-year-old Randy McPhee, loved the show, teasing the wrestlers and delighting in their hijinks. Micheline Roy led the opening day parade in her colourful clown outfit while Avery Horner took part with her Pooh Bear. Sunday's demolition derby is becoming one of the most popular in the province, with drivers coming all the way from Niagara to compete with local enthusiasts.

You inherit your looks, you choose your style!

Look Like A STAR !

In the most recent fashion shows of the great designers, the most remarkable make-up style is, hands down, one that intensely outlines the eyes. Some make-up artists have even played with the whole look, painting luscious red lips, a vivid reminder of the femme fatale from Hollywood's past.

L'Oréal Paris has adopted this trend for its new fall collection, called "Scarlett Red" - a nod to one of its "ambassadors", the oh so elegant actress Scarlett Johansson. The house's official make-up artist, Eddie Maletierre, has blended sensual and audacious colours that will allow all women to show off their own "star qualities".

Full, red lips steal the show, this season, while textures that are simultaneously powdery and creamy give eyelids a touch of glamour. There's no reluctance to mix and layer satiny make-up, whether it's for an attractive and alluring day-time look, or a more daring look for the evening.

Rich maroon and silvery grey tints go well with black or deep brown lines sketched in with a contour pencil. And the look wouldn't be complete without the perfectly curved and lengthened lashes, along with the well-defined eyebrows that "frame" the face magnificently, just as Hollywood make-up artists have always known.

The final touch, for the face, is to apply blush to the cheekbones, a step that enhances beauty while also lending a healthy glow. Lastly, a true starlet never goes out without perfectly manicured nails, so to look like one, carefully apply colour to the tips of fingers and toes.

Now, as ever, red lips and a highly accentuated look heighten a woman's charm.

More deer means more archery hunting opportunities

The province is expanding and standardizing archery seasons for white-tailed deer as part of a sustainable wildlife management program, Natural Resources Minister David Ramsay.

"Expanding deer populations mean that we can further increase hunting opportunities in many parts of the province," said Natural Resources Minister David Ramsay. "We are also making it easier for hunters to know when seasons for white-tailed deer open and close."

For the fall 2007 deer hunting season, the first archery season opening date for most Wildlife Management Units will be:

- September 1 in northwestern Ontario (residents only);
- October 1 in southern, south-central and northeastern Ontario.

For areas with post-gun season archery hunts, the last archery closing date will be:

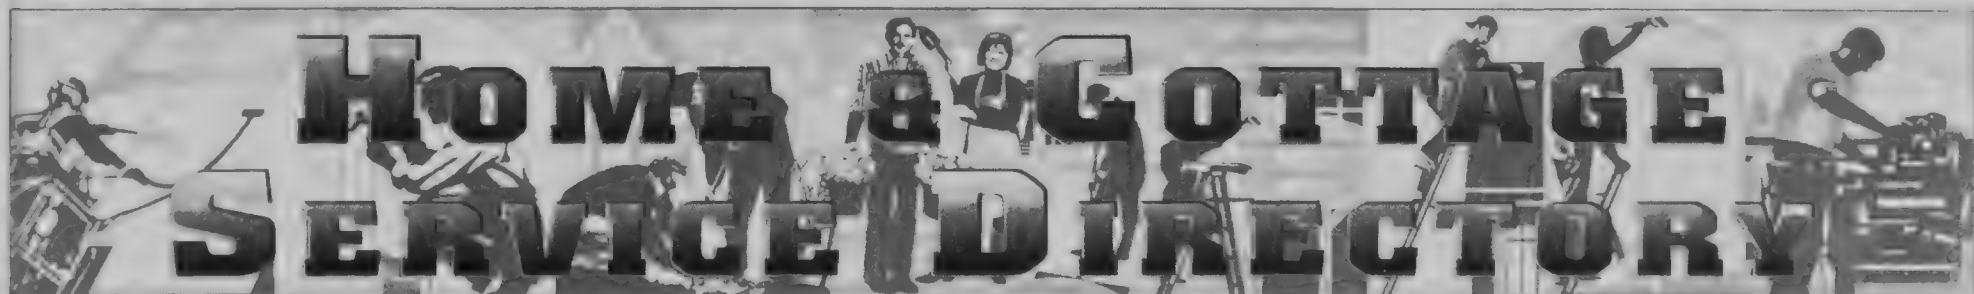

- December 15 for south-central Ontario;

- December 31 for southern Ontario.

The changes were posted on the Environmental Registry for public comment earlier this year and are in effect for the fall 2007 deer hunting season.

As of September 1, an additional 13 municipalities have been added to the list of areas where Sunday hunting is permitted, while two municipalities have been removed.

More details on the deer hunting and Sunday gun hunting changes are available on the ministry's website at Ontario.ca/mnr.

Wilberforce Fair entertains young and old community news

wilberforce

Hilda Clark
448-2018

The Wilberforce Agricultural Fair was a day of fun and learning. From the pony pull on Friday evening to the horse draw on Saturday this fair was packed with things to do, see and eat.

Very popular were the children's craft corner, the colouring contest and the face painting area. The petting zoo provided an opportunity for the kids and adults to get close up with farm animals. And, over in the goat section, folks could admire these sleek curious beasts. Many enjoyed rides on the wagon pulled by Star and Spark, the yoke of oxen. Just watching the oxen and the antique farm machinery took older people back in time and let the youngsters see how labour intensive farming could be.

Congratulations to all who entered their vegetables, flowers, baking, sewing knitting, quilting, etc. in the domestic sciences. The photos were varied and colourful. We hear that the babies and the teddy bears were all winners - at least in their families' hearts. The dogs were certainly all well loved by their humans and did their very best in the children's dog show. And the horse fans were not disappointed as the big guys and gals all pulled their weight.

Thanks to all who took part in the fair, especially the managers, directors and associate directors and all the volunteers who plan and carry out this fine annual event. See you next year at the 25th. Plan to help. Plan to enter.

The artists and crafters of this area welcomed many visitors to their studios over the past weekend. The Highlands East 5th Annual Studio Tour was a success. We managed to visit the Nostalgic Art Studio (blacksmithing), Earthdance Studio (oils, acrylics, sculpture), Artech Studio (blown glass), Pat Clarke (watercolours), Doreen deGrave (needlecraft), which all reported lots of visitors and had great displays of their work. The glass blowing demonstration was wonderful. They were great experiences and reports from others visiting others in the over 20 sites were also good. From fabric art to sculpture, from quality handmade furniture and cabinets to folk art and pottery, this area is home to many creative productive talented artists. Now that you have visited them and know their work we know you will be back to buy their creations and support them and encourage their talents.

Congratulations to the artists and thank you for letting the public into your studios and into your creative lives. Thanks for the tour.

The music of Blue Monk rang out Saturday night at the fifth annual Esson Lake Jazz Festival from the grounds of the Watson cottage. This fine Toronto-based group also entertained on the Studio Tour on Saturday and Sunday afternoons at Pat and Lee Clarke's place on Farr Road. Thanks for the great music.

Though not new and not for sale there is a display of some of the art of Gertrude LeRoy Miller at the Outpost Museum Enjoy it and a tour of the Museum.

The 15th anniversary of the Outpost Historic House as a museum will be celebrated this Wednesday at 7 PM with a corn/wiener roast. Enjoy this old-fashioned yet ever popular activity and cake too. Bring a lawn chair and a mug for coffee or cold drink. Tour the building, the Art Show and see our new Maternity Kit Display Case which was created by Willie Ewaschuk of Cottage Hill Furniture and Cabinets of Harcourt.

Jerald Cooper tried to save friends' lives

see the fire through the door," he says.

Garry, Jerald, Herbie Reimer and Jim Coltman all got out of the building but, once outside, they realized that Martin Bacon and 46-year-old Tony Penick were not with them. Reimer and Coltman tried to hold Jerald back but Jerald ran back into the 50-year-old cabin to try to wake up his brother-in-law and friend.

"He never came back," says Garry. "There was no thought process. He just did it. He gave his life for them."

Jerald Cooper had recently retired as Minden's barber, a job he inherited from his father Fred, who also shared Jerald's love of the hunt camp. He is survived by his wife, Pat, and two children, Karen and Jerry.

Martin Bacon had married the Coopers' sister, Colleen. He was a logger before going to work for the Township of Minden Hills' roads department. They have two sons, Scott, who lives in the area, and Andy, who flew in from Edmonton.

Tony Penick was a painter at the Calvacade Ford body shop in Bracebridge and was married to Trudy. They have two children, Tony and Curtis. It was only the first or second time he'd been to the camp, Garry says.

As hard as it is to lose a brother, a brother-in-law and a friend, Garry says there could have been six widows waking up on Saturday morning.

"Toonie saved three lives; it could have been four," he says, his voice choking with emotion.

Toonie, who got his name from his father, Buck, is worth a million dollars to the Cooper family.

"Toonie is like a two-year-old," says Garry's wife, Ruth. "Wherever Garry goes, Toonie goes with him."

Garry had been tempted not to take the dog with him into the camp on Friday but Toonie insisted. Ruth says it was if the beagle was saying, "You're not going without me."

The camp had long been a special place for all the Cooper family.

"We do feel, every one of us, that that place was a haven for my father and a marvellous place for Jerald and Martin," Garry says. "My brother and my father before us and my brother-in-law loved that place. You go in where there's peace and quiet and a beautiful lake."

The camp is on Crown land. It started as a hunt camp but the Coopers often brought their family and friends to fish with them on Third Lake in the summer.

The atmosphere on Friday night was quite jovial and Garry, being the oldest, went to bed the earliest. He listened to the other men telling stories and laughing until he fell asleep on one of the lower bunk beds, Toonie by his side on the floor.

Garry grew up in Minden but had moved away. He was captain of a volunteer fire department for 15 years and 12 years ago he retired to West Guilford. He lost his own home, and all their possessions, in a fire four years ago.

Garry doesn't know how the fire at the camp started. There was propane, a generator and a battery but he thinks the fire started outside the building. The fire marshal's office is still investigating the fire and a cause has not yet been determined.

The cabin was built of wood and had a steel roof taken from an old barn. It wasn't insulated. The area around the cabin was very dry.

The men were unable to stop the building from burning once they got outside. "It was a tinderbox," Garry says. "There wasn't a hope."

Jim Coltman ran around to the other side to see if the other three men had come through a side door and then jumped on his ATV and rode it back to the two others.

Garry didn't want to leave the scene. He says he knew the three others were dead and wanted to remain with them. Although Jim Coltman was new to the camp, they decided that he'd ride back to the Cooper house to call for help.

Along the way, Jim Coltman went onto the wrong path. Ruth Cooper says Toonie was there to guide him onto the right one.

The road to the camp was about a mile long but "road" is a bit of a misnomer. It is really a rough trail. Coltman went to where his truck was parked and then used the truck's OnStar service to call for help.

Both the Algonquin Highlands and Minden Hills fire departments responded once they got the call at 5:19 in the morning.

Garry is extremely grateful for all the support the families have received, especially from the younger generations who have rallied behind the grieving wives.

"We're amply taken care of by our young people," says Garry. "It's marvellous."

He also praises the three teams of grief support volunteers who were on the scene immediately should any of the families need assistance.

Garry still has difficulty comprehending the scope of the tragedy. "Martin was one of the nicest people I ever knew. He was a sweet, sweet man. And Jerald was so caring of everyone. He cared about everyone forever."

Bruce Sawyer is someone who can testify to that. Sawyer is the long-time barber in Haliburton and is a cousin of the Coopers. He had been in hospital a while back and got a call from Jerry about a week ago. Jerry, who had recently turned 60, was a very soft-spoken man, Sawyer says, but he had some very serious advice. "He told me to take life easy and that I shouldn't be working so hard."

Retirement had been short for Jerald Cooper but it had already given him great satisfaction, especially when he was fishing with his friends. If there had to be a place for him to die, his brother says, then the camp was the place where Jerald most wanted to be.

Visitation for all three men is from 4 to 8 p.m. on Thursday August 16 at the Gordon A. Monk Funeral Home in Minden. A service to celebrate their lives will be held at the Minden Community Centre (upstairs) on Friday August 17th at 1 p.m..

Moore family reunion's roots stretch back to Ireland

Doug and Aileen Moore celebrated at the Centre on Saturday, August 11 the Moore family reunion. Doug's father, Joe and his brother, Jim had their roots in Ireland. Some of the 100 present had come from Collingwood, others from Dundas, and still others from Manitoba and Saskatchewan. The guests were treated to a hot turkey dinner by the family. Naturally, Cheryl Cooper and Marje Nicholls were the ones behind the scene in that department.

Also on August 11, our next door neighbour, Brittany, daughter of Larry Hewitt and Shirley Clancy, married Jeremy Miscio at Greg and Sandra Bishop's place on Soyers Lake. We extend congratulations and every good wish to them in their marriage.

Andy and Kim Cooper and family have arrived for our celebration in plenty of time for the 50th wedding anniversary on Saturday, and we expect the rest of the family to be here by August 16.

Many hearts are wrung with anguish over the loss of Gerald Cooper, brother of Gary Cooper of the Barry Line. To Gary and Ruth and to all who held him dear we offer heartfelt sympathy for this tragic loss.

August 9 brought me two visits which I cherish. The first visitor was Harry Terpstra who now resides in London.

Those visits are few and far between but all the more valued when they happen.

The second was from a long-ago (Grade 2!) pupil of mine, Eddie Adshead. Eddie's father worked at the time at the Kennis Mill. At one time Eddie was an aircraft mechanic and at that time was in touch with Mickey Titus who knows just everything about aircraft or any kind of mechanics. Now Eddie lives in Sault Ste. Marie and travels widely for M.N.R. as facilities and project Manager Officer in the finance and business branch. It's great to know that a connection can still be made over such a long time – over 50 years! Eddie also made time to call on Russell and Doreen Sisson and visited Wanda Reynolds and Murray Cooper.

Radiothon helps health services 'Reach for The Future'

Event will raise funds to pay for new equipment at Haliburton and Minden hospitals

LISSA BENNETT

Special to the Echo

This past June, a Picture Archiving and Communication System (PACS) was purchased and installed in both the Minden and Haliburton health care facilities. The digital imaging and storage system will allow images to be accessed by physicians almost immediately after an exam from any computer in the Haliburton or Minden facilities.

Within the next 24 months images taken at Haliburton Highlands Health Services will also be available to physicians in hospitals from east of Yonge St. to Belleville as part of an image sharing system.

The PACS system cost $1.1 million and is part of a three-year fundraising campaign by the Haliburton Highlands Health Services Foundation.

"We're not a big city hospital but we still want to provide people with good quality care. Technology plays a big part in that," explains Dale Walker, executive director of the Haliburton Highlands Health Services Foundation. The new Picture Archiving and Communication System is a way of moving diagnostic images from being developed on film to digital images stored on a computer, much like moving photographs developed on film to digital photographs.

"Images developed on film are no longer current and without the new technology x-rays and other diagnostic imaging would no longer be available in Haliburton," Walker says. Digital diagnostic images are available to physicians in Haliburton very shortly after examination and will soon be accessible to specialists easily by inter-hospital image sharing. Digital images also show more detail than images on film.

"The Ontario government does not pay for capital improvements such as building the new health care facilities in Minden and Haliburton, or for furnishings such as beds, baths, and specialized lifts, or for equipment such as PACS," says Walker. Capital expenditures are partly subsidized but the Haliburton community is primarily responsible to raise funds for such costs. That's the job of the HHHS Foundation.

The Foundation recently finished a $6 million dollar campaign which was started in 1998 to cover capital costs of the new healthcare facilities in Minden and Haliburton. In June 2007, the HHHS Foundation started the Reach For The Future Campaign. The goal is to raise $2.5 million over three years. The campaign will pay for the Picture Archiving and Communication Systems as well beds, specialized lifts and new baths for Hyland Crest and Highland Wood long-term care facilities in Minden and Haliburton, respectively.

As part of the Reach For The Future Campaign, the first annual Health Services Help Radiothon, with Moose FM live on location, will be held at the Minden site on Thursday, August 16 and at the Haliburton site on Friday, August 17.

MP Barry Devolin will be present at the radiothon on Thursday and MPP Laurie Scott will be present at the Haliburton radiothon on Friday.

The Reach For The Future campaign has already raised $500,000 and hopes to raise $20 000 with the radiothons.

"The Rotary Club of Haliburton pledged $75,000 over three years and that is part of our total $500,000 raised since June," says Walker. Various organizations such as the Lions Club and lake associations have donated to the campaign as well as local residents and cottagers.

"We can never thank our donors enough," says Walker. Special care is taken to ensure that all volunteers are trained on how to be polite and efficient on the phone during the Radiothon.

"Our events are so much fun - whether it's the Golf Classic, gala or radiothon participants can look forward to having a great time," says Walker excitedly. Perhaps, organizing such fun events is the HHHS Foundation's way of thanking its donors.

Those wishing to donate to the Reach For The Future Campaign can contact 457-1580 or 286-1580 or drop by the radiothon

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

THE PARENT FACTOR

QUESTION: We are newly married college graduates and want to buy our first home. Where can we go for financial help?

ANSWER: How about parents? In some families, gifts are easily given and parents are delighted to help their children. If you are fortunate enough to have parents who are financially successful and willing to share, homebuying can be greatly simplified.

Actually, such assistance is quite common. A study by the Nat. Assoc. of Realtors showed that 16% of all homebuyers were aided by parents. For first-time buyers, that figure rose to 31%. If it's an outright gift, the bank will want a "gift letter" stating that all demands for repayment are waived.

WHERE DO you go for help in finding downpayment cash for your first home? How about parents?

Drag Lake events weekend draws record crowds

The 2007 Drag and Spruce Lake Property Owners Fun Events were blessed with plenty of sunshine and compeditors. The two days of activities kicked off Saturday with the traditional Ced Hurd Memorial Mile Swim. There were 39 entries from 8 to 60 years of age. Best absolute time, Paul Cappa at 25 mins. and 36 seconds. Youngest swimmer was Stephen Tracy, 8 years old. Best finishers with handicap times were Alexandra Tracy at 24.39 in first, Judy Fannucci at 25.13 in second and Rob Young at 28.26. The afternoon swim and Novelty events included competitive swims and novelty water events all focused on kids under sixteen. A huge crowd of well over a 100 cheered on their family members.

Fun Day on Sunday was another crowd pleaser with sport and novelty races at the Gonnson Property (former Drag Lake Lodge). A BBQ/Corn Roast followed including ice cream. Thanks to Carl and Catharine Gonnson for preparing their playfield and to co-ordinators Kevin and Katie Overstrom, Bob Young and Wayne McMullen and their teams of volunteers.

AUTOMOTIVE

MOTOR VEHICLE dealers in Ontario MUST be registered with OMVIC. To verify dealer registration or seek help with a complaint, visit www.omvic.on.ca or 1-800-943-6002. If you're buying a vehicle privately, don't become a curb-sider's victim. Curb-siders are impostors who pose as private individuals, but are actually in the business of selling stolen or damaged vehicles.

COUNTY OF HALIBURTON
NOTICE OF STUDY COMMENCEMENT

Class Environmental Assessment
Reconstruction of County Road 21

The County of Haliburton has initiated a Class Environmental Assessment and Design Study to examine improvements to County Road 21 from the Allsaw Bridge easterly for 6.64km to a point approximately 350 metres west of Peninsula Road.

Various alternatives are being considered to improve the pavement condition, drainage operation, alignment and safety of County Road 21. Extensive repairs are anticipated in three locations:

1. Wigamog Road (north entrance).
2. East of Wigamog Road (south entrance).
3. West of Soyers Lake Road.

Construction is anticipated to be carried out in two phases, the first in 2008 and the second in 2009.

This project is being planned in accordance with the requirements of the Municipal Class Environmental Assessment, Schedule B (June 2000). Upon completion of the study, a project file will be prepared and made available for public review. A Notice of Study Completion will be published in the local paper at that time.

We are interested in hearing any comments or concerns that you may have about this project. Comments and information regarding this project are being collected to assist the Project Team in meeting the requirements of the Environmental Assessment Act. These comments will be maintained for reference throughout the project and, with the exception of personal information, will become part of the public record. For further information please contact:

Graduations

In memoriam

Barjarow, Harold

God took him home on August 24, 2006

God saw you getting tired
When a cure was not to be.
So he closed his arms
Around you and whispered
"Come to Me"

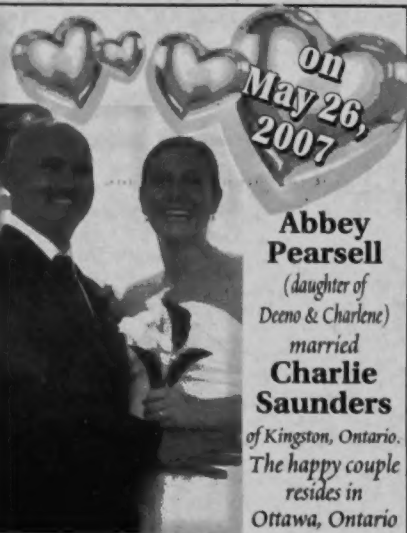

You didn't deserve what
You went through,

So He gave you rest.
God's garden must be beautiful
He only takes the best.

And when we saw you sleeping
So peaceful and free from pain,
We could not wish you back
To suffer that again.

In loving memory of our dear husband, father, grandfather and great grandfather.
